Dear You,
Sometimes life gets so busy that we feel like there isn't any way that we can reach out. Yet even what's small and simple can make a big difference. So here's my challenge to you: take five minutes today—yep, just five—and add some extra joy to the life of your friends and family. Tell them they're loved. Show them they matter. Remind them that they're irreplaceable to you and God. We're all in this together, and we need each other. It's easy to believe that we're the only ones who ever get discouraged. I can assure you that we all share the same struggles and hear the same lies. When we share truth with each other, that can begin to change. "Encourage one another daily, as long as it is called 'Today,' so that none of you may be hardened by sin's deceitfulness" (Heb. 3:13). Pause for a moment and ask God, "Who in my life needs to be encouraged today, and how can I be part of touching their hearts?" He knows what those around you need, and you can be his voice of love today in your own wonderful way. I'm praying for you and cheering you on as you encourage others today!

XOXO
